

5 Tips for school office health & safety supplies

1 Disposable gloves are your friend

You won't realise how many times you need disposable gloves in your school setting until you've lived through a week, or a term at school! From Sick Bay to cleaning, to canteen duty and beyond, these 'handy' supplies are essentials in so many settings. Make sure you get a variety of sizes for all the hands-on happiness you need.

2

A slick Sick Bay is easy

It only needs a few key items to create a safe, comfortable, private observation room for students or other patients who take ill or need medical assistance. For a well-furnished Sick Bay, think privacy screen or a simple set of steps to reach the bed or examination table, a first aid kit (and all the essentials to restock it as necessary), a good lamp, a hot/cold pack, pillow and sheets.

Hygiene is all-important

More, now than ever, hygiene is front and centre in many schools' protocol. Hand sanitiser has become the product of the decade it seems, right? Teaching healthy hand hygiene with hand soap, handwash, hand towels and tissues keeps your school community as safe as possible.

4

Disinfectant is about protection!

A school's surfaces take a lot of traffic, day to day, week to week. Protecting your surfaces and therefore protecting your school community is an essential part of a school's janitorial repertoire.

5

Toilet paper should be soft AND strong

We're calling it. Toilet paper matters. When you are stocking up your school, think softness and strength. Enough said, right?
