“Hands can play an important role in the spread of infection. The best way to prevent the transmission of disease is through effective hand hygiene. This can be done with soap and water which removes both dirt and germs from the hands; or by using a hand sanitiser which reduces the number of germs on the hands.”
 Staying Healthy Preventing infectious diseases in early childhood education and care services, 5th Edition

Colour-coding helps reduce the risk of cross contamination, improves hygiene and reduces the risk of bacteria transfer between work areas. Mops, buckets, handles, brooms, brushes, cloths, wipes. All are colour-coded for the work place. HACCP-Australian Food Safety Certification provides a recognised endorsement but it may be adjusted to your work place, as it is a guide only. However, it is the preferred colour-coding system for cleaning.
