Training 2s
– Look at Me Feelings Game
PK21028 $54.95

This game helps children develop social interaction skills. Some children may have difficulties in expressing their feelings and understanding others’ feelings. These children normally will avoid direct eye contact with others. It is difficult for them to process the information received through normal eye contact. This toy is designed to help children to familiarise the relationship between eye expressions and feelings. It comes with two hand puppets and different facial features and accessories. The eyes, mouths and eyebrows can be placed in different positions to show different emotions and help children understand them. Size: 22(W) x 16.5(H)cm. Ages 3+ years

new

Game of Emotions
RO4087 $119.95

This game lowers the barriers on talking about feelings. Children learn to express their own emotions, to be open to the emotions of other children and to learn to respect these emotions. They learn to give and receive compliments. To express the various emotions, the children can use different styles of expression such as drawing, rhythm and music, body expression and just talking about things that happened. The game is played with one counter. Throw the dice in turn and take a card that matches the face on which the counter lands. Give the card to one of the other players. The person receiving the card is invited to express his particular emotion and responds to the card as indicated by the assignment on the other side. Suitable for 2-4 players. Size: 39(L) x 39(W) x 4.8(H)cm.

PRIMO

Cubetto is a playful wooden robot that helps young children (3+) discover programming through storytelling, adventure and collaboration. It's the first coding toy of its kind to work without a screen or digital interface, and lets children learn to code before they can read or write.

new

Cubetto - The Coding Robot

CUB001	Each	$349.95
CUB001-5	Set of 5	$1,599.95
CUB001-10	Set of 10	$3,099.95

Buy a set of 10 robots and SAVE $399.55

The Cubetto Playset makes coding accessible to children in preliterate years, introducing core programming concepts like debugging, the queue, and recursions, and encouraging computational thinking: the process of breaking down tasks into a logical sequence of steps to reach an objective. By taking coding away from the screen, and using a hands-on, block-based programming language, Cubetto develops these skills and logic in a way specifically tailored for early learning.

Cubetto is made up of 3 separate elements: a friendly wooden robot, a tangible interface board, and a 16 piece instructions blocks set that make up a programming language you can touch. The playset comes with a charmingly illustrated 1x1m world map and story book that make every play session with Cubetto a unique and memorable adventure. Children use the instruction blocks (forward, left, right and function) on the interface board to create a sequence. Cubetto and the Interface board communicate wirelessly, and Cubetto is powered by 6 AA batteries.

Cubetto - Extra Blocks
