Teacher's notes

Planning Your Story
After reading, explain that most stories have a clear beginning, middle and end. Then, fill out the graphic organiser together using the sub-headings as prompts. This graphic organiser could also be used before writing to help children plan the structure and direction of their story.

Visualising
After reading, ask children to select a scene or moment in the story that particularly stood out to them. Alternatively, you may want to select a suitable scene yourself. Encourage children to close their eyes and imagine what it would be like to be there. Then complete the graphic organiser together.

Using Adjectives
Find an example of a good description in the text and write it on the board. Remind children what adjectives are and ask them to identify all the adjectives in the description you have chosen. Then, direct children back to the text and ask them to find adjectives to describe characters, locations and objects in the story.

Making a Graph
Use this graphic organiser to provide a visual representation of factual information from the text, or to record children's opinions or predictions about the subject matter. Encourage children to think about the best way to label the graph based on the nature of the information to be recorded.

Making Comparisons
Use this graphic organiser to record the differences children observe in texts about experiences, cultures, things about objects etc from the past to the present day. Encourage children to find the evidence in the text that supports their observations and opinions.

Finding Facts
Write the subject of the text in the middle circle i.e. "Blue whales". Ask children to recall facts about the subject from the text, and write these facts in the outer circles. Draw additional circles if necessary. Include any extra facts from the children's own existing knowledge.

Exploring Fairy Tales
Start by asking children to name some fairy tales they know. Ask them to think of things the fairy tales have in common and write these on the board. Then, introduce the selected board. After reading, use this graphic organiser to examine how the traditional elements of a fairy tale feature in the story you have read.

Making Predictions
During reading, at the moment of a key event or cliffhanger, pause and encourage children to discuss what they think the consequences of the event might be. Introduce the graphic organiser and complete it together. After reading, compare and contrast children's predictions with the actual outcome of the story.

Making Connections
After reading, ask children, "What parts of this story remind you of things in your life?" Then, ask children, "What other stories, movies or TV shows does this remind you of?" Record the children's connections in the relevant column on the graphic organiser.

What Happens?
Use this graphic organiser to help children find causes and effects in the text. Identify an example of cause and effect, then direct students to and affect, then direct students to the graphic organiser by finding more causes and effect pairs in the text.

Learning More
Before reading, ask children what they already know about the subject. Agree collectively on the five most important facts then list these under the first heading. After reading, ask children what new facts that have learnt about the subject. Agree on the six most important facts and list these under the second heading.

Asking Questions
Encourage children to share any questions they have on the subject matter before reading and record these in the left-hand column. After each paragraph, allow children to ask questions about the text, and record these in the middle column. When you have finished reading, record any questions in the right-hand column.

Five We Story Map
Use this graphic organiser to help children investigate and focus on the key elements of a text after reading. Alternatively, this graphic organiser could be used before a creative writing task to help children plan and structure their writing.

Asking Questions
Introduce the story by giving children the title and showing them the front cover. Ask what questions they have about it based on this information. During reading, pause at the end of each chapter and record any new questions children have. After reading, ask children what questions they have at the end of the story.

Exploring Vocabulary
During reading, ask children to note down any words they don't know. After reading, record these words in the "Word" column of the graphic organiser. Encourage children to try to work out the meaning based on context. Failing this, look up the word in the dictionary together, and record the definition under "Meaning".

Glossary
Discuss the purpose of a glossary. Ask children if there were any words in the text they didn't understand, then write these words in the "Word" column. Look up the definitions of each unknown word in the dictionary, then decide together which is the correct meaning in context and write this in the "Meaning" column.

Labelled Diagram
Use this graphic organiser to identify the physical elements of your subject matter. Draw or cut and paste an image of the subject matter in the middle of the graphic organiser. Discuss which text box is the best position for each label. Explain that the label should be as close as possible to the part it is describing.

Making Connections
After reading, ask children, "What parts of this text remind you of things in your life?" Then, ask children, "What other stories, movies or TV shows does this text remind you of?" Record the children's connections in the relevant column on the graphic organiser.

Good and Bad Characters
Ask children what they think makes a character good, and what makes a character bad. Discuss the characters from the story and select one good character and one bad character. Then, complete the graphic organiser together and compare the characters.

Planning Dialogue
Use this graphic organiser before a creative writing task to help children prepare and structure interactions between characters. Alternatively, use the graphic organiser to examine an important interaction between characters in a story.

Sequence of Events
After reading, discuss the importance of a clear and structured plot. Ask children to think about the main events of the story, and how they connect to each other. Introduce the graphic organiser and agree together on the starting point for the sequence of events. Then complete the other sections together.

What Do We Learn?
Explain to children that information can be sorted into "important facts" and "supporting details". Point out that this facts and details can be found in pictures and graphics as well as in the words. Read through each section of the text, discussing each section of the text, discussing and agreeing on the main idea and supporting details.

Responding to Texts
Explain that you will be asking the children to think about what they have read. In the "Problem" box, write the main subject of the text, i.e. "Sea turtles are in danger". Ask children to identify five reasons given in the text for this problem, then ask what they think about the problem and the reasons behind it.

Making a Map
Use this graphic organiser to show children how to draw and label a map. Choose a familiar area such as the classroom, playground or local area. Write the chosen area on the title line and draw the outer boundaries. You may need to provide the first point of reference. Then encourage children to identify and label other key features.

Jolly Dictionary

Teaching children how to use a dictionary will improve reading and writing, and help them become independent learners. The award-winning Jolly Dictionary complements the Jolly Grammar books and is designed to teach children how to look up and understand words they don't know. A unique Pronunciation Guide is given for each of the 6,000+ age-appropriate words. The definitions have been carefully written so that children find them easy to read and understand. The Jolly Dictionary is also beautifully illustrated throughout.
