Union, League & Touch

Rugby Union and Rugby League are very popular games. While starting from similar origins, the rules for the two codes are different. Rugby Union has 15 people on a team whereas Rugby League has 13. The shape of the ball is also different between the two codes. Touch football and oztag are very fast paced games. They are popular as a pre-season or fun training activity for Union and League, and are also liked because they do not have the physical contact aspect of Union and League.

Baseball, Softball & Tee Ball

These nine-a-side sports are great to get kids out of the classroom and onto the field. Tee ball uses a stand to hold the ball and the batter hits the ball from the stand. In softball, the ball is pitched underarm and a larger ball is used than in baseball. There are two versions that are called slow pitch and fast pitch softball. Fast pitch is the most popular, where the ball is thrown quickly and goes straight to the batter. In slow pitch softball, the ball has to go in an upward direction first, and then comes downwards before reaching the batter. Baseball uses a smaller size ball and the ball is pitched overarm. Hit a home run with MTA's fantastic range of equipment.

Generic Glove Sizes Guide

Right hand throw is for players who throw with their right hand and wear the glove on their left hand. Left hand throw is for players who throw with their left hand and wear the glove on their right hand.
